

The court is of the opinion that Captain T. B. McDowell, of Company A, Richmond Light Infantry Blues, has acted with unfairness towards and prejudice against said Corporal Martin, in requesting his discharge contrary to the regulations of the Virginia Volunteers.

"That this lack of co-operation is detrimental to the service." Up to Major Bowles. The court's only power in the premises is to recommend. Therefore, it follows in connection with the following recommendation:

"The court recommends that the commanding officer of the battalion take what steps he may deem expedient to correct the existing state of affairs, respectfully calling his attention to the sixty-second article of war."

The article quoted by the court provides that all crimes not capital, and all disorders and neglects which officers and soldiers may be guilty of, to the prejudice of good order and military discipline, are to be punished by a general or field officers' court-martial, according to the nature and degree of the offence, and punished at the discretion of such court.

Good Military Work. Captain McDowell is regarded as an excellent soldier, taking part with enthusiasm in all military work. Although his command was excused from service with the Petersburg company, as second in command, and having had with him the troops in camp, being the only member of the Blues Battalion on the ground.

Recently Captain McDowell was tried by court-martial for a difficulty which he had with a private, the trouble having started on the streets, and ending in a charge of assault on the officer to a fight in the army. Both soldiers were acquitted. It was brought out in the trial that Captain McDowell's company was well drilled and disciplined, and that he stood high as an officer.

PLEADS FOR LAW, NOT MAN'S VOICE (Continued From First Page) polism was made when our fathers devised and put into operation a government of law for a government of men. Let us rather rejoice that in standing by the institutions which have for more than a century made us the most law-abiding people of the earth, that we are walking in the footsteps of our fathers when we maintain in letter and spirit that division of the great functions of government which the men of Massachusetts and the men of Virginia, and the men of Maryland declared with Montezuma to be the best security for a government of laws, and the only safeguard against a return to a government of men.

Enjoyable Banquet. There was a well-arranged and enjoyable entertainment during the serving of the courses at the banquet this evening. Maryland, Virginia, and West Virginia songs were sung by the members of the Old Kentucky Home and "Auld Lang Syne" were sung with gusto. Henry St. George Tucker, the toastmaster, proposed the following resolutions: "Resolved, that the men of Maryland and the men of Virginia, and the men of Maryland declared with Montezuma to be the best security for a government of laws, and the only safeguard against a return to a government of men."

Judge Horace G. Lorton thanked the convention for its cordial reception. He said he was glad to meet so many men who were so interested in the cause of the Republic. Colonel Edward L. Russell, of Mobile, Ala., was the next speaker, and he delivered a witty address. William L. Barbury, Baltimore, spoke on "Barbury as an Agency in the Administration of Justice." He said he thought the legal profession was not improving itself as much as other professions in bettering itself and advancing itself. Judge W. P. Kittrell, of Texas, and Judge Charles W. Heister, of Baltimore, also addressed the associations.

CRUISE IS ENDED

Taft, at Home Again, Has Busy Time Ahead of Him. President Taft's ten days' vacation cruise along the Maine coast ended at 3 o'clock this afternoon, when the Mayflower dropped anchor in Beverly.

The President thoroughly enjoyed the cruise, despite the mishap to his yacht, which ended his golf playing. The ankle is nearly well, and he is immediately after coming ashore Mr. Taft sent for all of the morning papers available, and read the details of the Ohio State convention's proceedings yesterday and the full text of the platform adopted.

It is not likely that Mr. Taft will make any formal comment on the situation in Ohio or upon the platform. He sent this brief telegram to Warren G. Harding, the Republican nominee for Governor of Ohio: "I sincerely congratulate you on your nomination, and earnestly hope that you may be elected."

The statement was reiterated here to-day that President Taft did not take any active part in the shaping of the Ohio platform.

The President has a busy time ahead of him. A large number of engagements already have been made, and it is said there will be a continual stream of prominent visitors to Beverly from now on. William L. Ward, Republican national campaign manager for New York, will be one of the many political leaders who will see the President.

The executive offices are to be moved from the Board of Trade rooms in the center of the city to the water front, where an old colonial mansion has been leased for the purpose.

The new offices will be much nearer the President's cottage, and he may decide to spend the working hours there instead of in his own library.

Colonel Anderson Reappointed. City Attorney H. R. Pollard yesterday reappointed Colonel George Wayne Anderson to be assistant City Attorney for a term of two years. Mr. Pollard has sent his appointment to City Clerk Ben T. August.

WOMAN AIDED MEN TO ESCAPE JAIL

Recaptured Prisoner Tells Sensational Story of the Way He Got Liberty.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Roanoke, Va., July 28.—J. M. Hoffman, a white man, twenty-five years old, wanted in Christiansburg for forgery, was arrested here to-night. He broke out of the Christiansburg jail last September at the same time as a German violinist, who was convicted of horse stealing, made his escape.

Hoffman tells a sensational story of the jail delivery, implicating a young woman of Christiansburg and two men of Blacksburg. He says the young woman, who is well known, thought much of the Christiansburg forger, and was reciprocated. According to Hoffman, the young woman induced the two Blacksburg men to saw the hinges on the door of the cell in which Hoffman and the violinist were confined.

After the door was opened, Hoffman says, the men gave Von Laderbeck a revolver, and the violinist forced Hoffman, at the point of the gun, to accompany him. The escaped prisoners came to Roanoke, and from here went to New York, where Hoffman and Laderbeck opened a music school.

Von Laderbeck is well remembered in Roanoke as the inmate of the section of the State. While confined in the Roanoke jail on a larceny charge he charmed the jailer with his violin and was made a trustee. Then he walked away and stole a horse and buggy belonging to the jailer. He was confined in the Christiansburg jail while there he gave lessons on the violin to a class of young people of the town, and went to Roanoke and taught at the section of the State.

BOTH OLD PARTIES ARE CONDEMNED

Independents Will Fight Democratic and Republican Nominees.

BERRY FOR GOVERNOR

Convention Meets in Philadelphia and Nominates Full State Ticket.

Philadelphia, July 28.—William H. Berry, of Delaware county, for Governor; D. Clarence D. Gibbons, of Philadelphia, for Lieutenant-Governor; Cornelius D. Scully, of Allegheny county, for State Treasurer, and John Casey, of Luzerne county, for Secretary of Internal Affairs, the ticket nominated by the Keystone party, formed here to-day, to oppose the nominees of both the Republican and Democratic parties.

The convention, composed of 177 delegates from fifty-two counties in this State, denounced both the old parties as being under the domination of the liquor interests, but refused to incorporate in its platform any reference to former President Roosevelt, who was proclaimed by some of the delegates "the greatest American citizen."

The nominee for Governor was formerly State Treasurer, to which office he was elected by the combined Democratic, Prohibition and Independent voter in the political upheaval of 1905. While in office he uncovered the State Capital scandal, in the recent Democratic State Convention he was defeated for the nomination for Governor, but received 109 votes. Many delegates subsequently bolted their party and took part in to-day's convention.

D. Clarence Gibbons, the nominee for Lieutenant-Governor, has headed the reform movement in this city. He has been secretary of the local law and order society for twenty years. Cornelius D. Scully is a young banker and lawyer in Pittsburg, where he has been active in reform politics.

John Casey, the fourth name on the ticket, was a delegate to the State Legislature by the labor vote of Luzerne county, and is the author of the Casey employers' liability bill.

The name "Keystone" was adopted by the convention as the party name. The preamble to the platform adopted by the independents begins with the following language: "Pennsylvania faces to face with the necessity of a desperate battle for the preservation of representative free government."

"A political trust managed by cunning politicians, threatens the Commonwealth by the use of public property an office upon force, fraud and election crimes."

"Police protected dens of vice are made to furnish enough illegal voters to overwhelm respectable citizenship. Both of the tickets nominated and both by the reforms adopted, it is well understood, was dictated by the same authority, and were intended for the delusion of the voters and the further confirmation of the power of the political machine."

The preamble calls on citizens to join for the defeat of the "political party of the boss and the saloon." The platform, among other things, advocates local self-government in the matter of the liquor traffic; advocates the election of United States Senators by popular vote, and calls for a public utility commission, similar to the one in New York State.

PREYING ON INDIANS Liquor Men Have Aroused Ire of Government. Washington, D. C., July 28.—Aroused by reports that liquor dealers in several sections of the country recently have been preying on the Indians as selling them intoxicants, in contravention of Federal and State statutes, and sending them home penniless, the Bureau of Indian Affairs to-day took steps to bring about more rigid enforcement of the law.

Second Assistant Commissioner Hawk issued instructions to the superintendents of the Bureau of Indian service, calling their attention to the Federal statute, which they can invoke to protect the red men. Indian agents were advised that it was without power to change the places of payment of annuities in all cases where they fail to secure the necessary cooperation from the local officers, on the matter of the sale of liquor to government wards.

The climbers ascended the peak alleged by Cook to be the summit, but it is ten miles from the topmost point of the mountain.
